

ESERA Special Interest Group for Eye-tracking in Science Education Research: The Plan of (future) activities

- March 2021: Eye Tracking in Science Education Research - online event
- Joined symposium: Eye tracking: Routes to a deeper understanding of science education accepted for ESERA 2021 conference
- Publishing a review on the use of ET in science education research
- Since October 2021: Starting a regular newsletter including announcements, information about group activities, requests of group members and current research of group members,
- March 2022: Eye-Tracking symposium and workshop in Prague
- planning joint projects rising research samples as well as research's international validity by more international participants using the same methodology and material to test students from their countries